A Message from the Director

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

What a year it's been at the Dormann Library! As we reflect on the past year, I'm filled with gratitude for this vibrant and supportive community. Together, we've continued to grow, adapt, and reimagine what a modern library can be.

This year, we celebrated a major milestone—the completion of the Robert & Edith Saxton Memorial Pavilion. This beautiful new space is the first piece of our evolving Outdoor Learning Space, a vision that's coming to life thanks to your generosity and belief in our mission. We're excited to begin welcoming readers, learners, and explorers of all ages into the fresh air to enjoy programs, nature, and a little peace and quiet.

Inside the library, we continued to offer robust programming for children, teens, and adults, expand our collection, and explore new ways to serve you better. From story times and workshops to technology help and book clubs, we've been proud to offer something for everyone.

Thank you for your support, whether it came through a donation, a visit, a kind word, or a shared story. Libraries thrive when communities believe in them—and you've shown us time and again just how strong that belief is.

We can't wait to see what the next year brings. See you at the library!

Warmly,

Leigh Ann Rumsey
Library Director

Mission Statement

To provide free and fair access to educational materials and experiences that promote lifelong learning, creativity, and connection in our community.

Vision Statement

The Dormann Library strives to be the safe and welcoming hub of our vibrant and thriving community by providing a center for information and discovery through innovative programming, robust collections, and responsive services.

Transparency and Stewardship

At the Dormann Library, we take pride in being responsible stewards of public and donated funds. We are committed to transparency and accountability in all aspects of our financial management.

Funding Sources

Our library is funded through a combination of public funds, grants, and private donations. These include:
